Old Republic Home Protection makes a strategic move to market Home Warranty Plans in the Louisville, KY area

SAN RAMON, CA (January 28, 2008)

In order to better serve the Kentucky Real Estate community, Old Republic Home Protection announces the expansion of its home warranty service into the Louisville area. A home warranty provides home sellers and home buyers budget protection from expensive home system and appliance repair or replacement costs, and helps properties on the market sell more quickly. Louisville's very active real estate market will benefit from having this essential tool readily available to real estate agents and their clients.

Old Republic Home Protection's local Account Executive, Rhonda Henson, is leading the Company's advance into Louisville. She will serve Louisville and Lexington, as well as the surrounding areas. Rhonda is an expert on Old Republic Home Protection's Home Warranty Plan and their free, customizable, online marketing tools. She is eager to share her expertise with real estate brokers and agents, and to bring the Company philosophy of "We're People Helping People" to life for real estate professionals in the Kentucky market.
